

Behaviour Introduction Question

What next steps can automatic systems take after targets are detected and tracked?

1) One can link together tracks broken by occlusion and other effects. 2) One can identify what people are doing at any particular instant (and also combine these to identify medium and longer-term activities).