

Dense Stereo Question

What method is used to assess how well a pixel in the left image matches a pixel in the right image?

The Sum of Squared Differences (SSD) of pixel values is computed for all the corresponding pixels in the neighbourhoods of the left and right target pixels. A low SSD indicates a good match. The SSD can be calculated in both colour and monochrome images.