Remembering performance – a database-backed service for PEPA models

Ashok Argent-Katwala*

June 10, 2003

Abstract

By storing metadata about models we have analysed in the past, we could possibly speed up future calculations for related models. I shall present a work-in-progress database-backed service for PEPA models that stores whatever meta-information people find useful and supports automated networked queries.

*Department of Computing, South Kensington Campus, Imperial College London, SW7 2AZ. Email: a.argent-katwala@doc.ic.ac.uk